HONGKONG, OCTOBER 23RD, 1880. THE regretful fend between the Chief Justice and the Registrar of the Supreme Court may now be considered to have reached its culmination. Mr. Gibnous in publicly giving vent to his long pent-up feelings on Thursday last took a desperate step, and in doing so evidently had in view the bringing of the matter to a climax. Judging from his words and the evident sense of smarting which he has experienced since his arrival to take up officehereit becomes lessa matter of wonder that he should have adopted the singular course he did, than that he should longer endure the circumstances in which he was placed as regards the Chief Justice. The ultimate consequence of the Registrar's action requires but little penetration to predict. The old, old stories of might defeating right, and the weak going to the wall will once more be enacted. Alas for the right and the weak and also for human nature, that compassion should in such case be necessary! Notwithstanding that the unhappy relations between the officers referred to being matter of public knowledge, and in spite of the recent scandalous scené in Court, when Mr. GIBBONS publicly met with offensive treatment from His Lordship, and the former's official representations, His Excellency, who is professedly so zealous in making crooked paths straight and in the suppression of abuses, has calmly held aloof from interference at a moment when the strong band of intervention was most needed. Sphink-like it has pleased His Excellency to remain immobile, blind, and deaf at a time when the Courts were heing converted into a bear-garden, the Judiciary fast resolving into a mockery, and the prestige of the British and foreigners general, as regards the Chinese, receiving powerful shocks. His Excellency's motives are generally unfathomable, as are his 2 p.m. to-day. actions incomprehensible. The matter has, however, now reached a stage when fur ther indifference is impossible; the public patience is as much exhausted as the Repride, the public are forced to contemplate Eastern Extension Tolograph Company, we elbow by a fall, while the wound on the thigh then looked up the books and found that the the Judicial Department with disgust and Gr. James at 700 and a state and Gr. James at 700 contempt, and the business of the Courts for this port. comes to a dead-lock in consequence of interrocine discord, the point is reached when further inaction becomes a total dereliction of duty. It is monetrous that public business should be brought to an absolute standstill, and the concorned suffer in consequence, because Sir John Smalle has conceived the purpose of humiliating the Registrar of the cause to cherish an antipathy to Mr.GIBBONS; but of that we know nothing. It becomes

In considering the Registrar's recent address to those in Court, we are bound to come to the conclusion that it was a most ill-adin its existence, and is Now READY for SALE vised measure, for notwithstanding that, as dies lay in a totally different direction, and Various additions have been made, tending to no one should have known that better than "The Chronicle and Directory for China, referred to? and that he now feels no protection from insult save in the Press! With these facts before us, and having seen what we have came into court and said he had just recieved a seen, and knowing what we know, we are bound to record our profound sympathy for the gentleman who, having attained Mr. GIBBONS's age, and with his lengthened professional career, should within a few months after arrival in this Colony, be driven to appeal to the public as disinterested judges, and Mesars, Malherbo, Jullien & Co rely upon the Press for protection from insult and indignities from a quarter to which every man, be he gentle or be he lowly, has a right to expect courtesy. That the Registrar of the Court should, contrary to all preseedent, be compelled to make his case known in the manuer he did, regardless of what cost to himself and his family, speaks volumes for what he must have endured. The public will not be slow to put their own interpretation upon the fact. We repeat Mr. Gip-ions has our profoundest sympathy, and we venture to think that that sentiment is echoed, to use the Registrar's own words, "over the length and breadth of the Colony.".

sidered by the Magistrate as palliative, and the sentence is oftog accordingly mitigated. The exercise of mercy, thrice blessed quality as it surely is, should be always blended with justice, a stern regard for the equal administration of the law. Unfortunately the Hon. These circumstances, however, only served to procure him a fine of fifty cents for his repetition of the offence. Perhaps he will be fined a dollar on his inevitable third appearance. We have today to draw attention to a case that seems, on the face of it, to be equally lenient. Two coolies were charged vesterday at the Police Court with plying with a chair for hire without a licence. The charge was proved by the Sikh Constable making it, and the prisoners, were fined ten cents! Now under Ordinance son being the owner of a vehicle or chair who shall allow it to ply for hire, or any driver front of him, put his hands before his face, and threats towards the defendant, saying, "If you own account.-Japon Mail. or bearer who shall ply for hire without a made a noise, thus confusing him, and the other were not as old as my father I would pluck your licence, is liable to a fine of one hundred dollars. The men in question may have been very poor, but their possession of an old licence proved they knew they were infringing the law, and the sentence passed | the same time as the piracy case recently heard upon them is certainly not calculated to protect the licensed bearers? These men have a distinct right to such protection. They pay for a privilege, and it should be conserved to them. If such fines are to be inflicted in the future, it will pay the chair coolies better to do without licences. The police would certainly have a great accession of work, there would be a decrease in revenue, and a possible increase in crime. Have these contingencies presented themselves to the mind of the

The French steamer Washi, Captain Hunter which left on the 6th instant for Tonquin, had to go into the floating dock to repair certain damage sustained while rendering assistance to the China Merchants' steamer Kang-chi, which she found aground on a bank north of Hainan as she was returning from Hongkong to Haiphong to resume her subsidised postal service. There was near the Kang-chist the time the English gun-vessel Magnie, but her assistance was insufficient and the aid of the Washi was requested. By the assistance of these two vessels the Kang-chi was got off. When the Washi left the dock the authorities very properly thought it advisable that a trial trip hould take place, and the result was most satisactory, the speed obtained being from a knot and a half to two knots above that contracted for. This is due we are told, to the alterations and repairs the vessel has undergone at Hongkong. The Austrian Lloyds, which are shortly to establish a line to China, touching at Saigon, have asked for an exemption for their steamers from light and anchorage dues. It is said that our Government intends to accode to the demand in order that they may not keep the vessels of this powerful company from our port.

LADIES' TAM O'SHANTERS. The prevalent lack of width in ladies akirts is not to be characteristic of the newest fashion in bonnets. The article that has just come over for the milliners' show season, which commences this week, is a Tam O'Shanter hat. Some of the hats of this order are made of beaver, with a little tuft in the centre, just like the Scotch carters' bonnet. Others are more lavishly trimmed, but still preserve the large flat circular crown projecting beyond the portion which grasps the head. Some of them are wonderfully suggestive of the French cook's chapeau. The Tam O'Shanter, however, is very becoming to certain ladies' faces, and I hear that it is expected to become extremely fashionable.
